THE UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI MISSION STATEMENT

The University of Miami's mission is to educate and nurture students, to create knowledge, and to provide service to our community and beyond. Committed to excellence and proud of the diversity of our University family, we strive to develop future leaders of our nation and the world.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

Overview and History:

Although many individuals, over a period of years, played a role in the establishment of the University of Miami, it was William Jennings Bryan who first promoted the need and stimulated a community planning effort for a university to serve the growing Miami area. In 1925 the University received its charter, and in the following year enrolled its first students. On March 18, 1926, Bowman Foster Ashe was named executive secretary and subsequently president of the University by the Board of Regents.

The cornerstone of the Merrick Building, which was to house classrooms and administrative offices, was laid on February 4, 1926, on land donated by George E. Merrick, founder of Coral Gables. Merrick also donated $5 million to be matched by other sources. When Merrick's donation could not be matched, the work that had begun on the Merrick Building ceased and a decision was made to convert the partially constructed Anastasia Hotel into temporary quarters for the University. In the rush to finish the Anastasia Building before the announced opening of the University in October, cardboard-covered partitions were used to separate rooms, leading to the name "Cardboard College." Construction on the Merrick Building would not resume until 1949, 23 years after it was started.

In September, just before the first classes were to begin, the monster hurricane of 1926 swept through South Florida causing destruction that left the University further in debt. In spite of tremendous adversity, the University managed to open its doors on October 15, 1926, offering programs in the liberal arts and music to 560 students. The School of Law was added in 1928 and the Schools of Business and Education were created in 1929.

The Florida depression that followed the collapse of the real estate market and the national depression that started in 1929 added further financial burdens that brought the survival of the University into question. President Ashe had to resort to borrowing on his personal insurance policy to pay faculty salaries. Still in debt, the University filed a petition for bankruptcy in 1932. Determined to keep the University going, President Ashe and others formed a new corporation, The University of Miami, Inc., and in 1934, at an auction, bought back the University's property for $15,758.84.

The 1940's was a time of great change at the University. During World War II, President Ashe arranged to have university facilities available for training U.S. Army and British Royal Air Force personnel. In addition, the war gave the University reason to expand its facilities. The Graduate School was created in 1941 and the Marine Laboratory was formally established in 1943. In 1947, shortly after the war ended, the School of Engineering was founded, and the University began the excavation of Lake Osceola.

Growth continued at the University in the fifties. The School of Medicine, the first to be accredited in the state of Florida, was founded in March of 1952. After President Ashe fell ill and subsequently died in December of 1952, Jay F. W. Pearson was named the second president of UM in January of 1953. President Pearson served in that capacity until 1962. During his tenure, the first computer on the UM campus was installed in the Engineering Building and the Board of Trustees removed all racial barriers from admissions policies.

Henry King Stanford became the University's third president on April 18, 1962. The Department of Nursing, which originated as a department in the College of Arts and Sciences, became the School of Nursing in 1968. Also in 1968, with a gift from The Rosenstiel Foundation, the University obtained a deed for 9.7 acres of land on Virginia Key. Shortly after these events, in 1969, the Institute of Marine Science (formerly the Marine Laboratory) became a school, and several months later was renamed the Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science. Although continuing education classes had been offered since 1926, the University formally founded the School of Continuing Studies in 1974.

Edward T. Foote II was inaugurated as the University's fourth president in 1981. Under his leadership, the University was elected into Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest and most prestigious honor society. Three additional schools were also founded in the eighties: Architecture (1983), the Graduate School of International Studies (1983), and the School of Communication (1985). In 1997, the Graduate School of International Studies was reorganized to offer undergraduate degree programs and was renamed the School of International Studies.

Donna E. Shalala became the University's fifth president in 2001. At the time of her inauguration, the University celebrated its 75th anniversary. In 2002, the School of International Studies was disestablished and combined with the College of Arts and Sciences. The following year, the School of Continuing Studies was disestablished and its responsibilities were moved into the Divisions of Enrollments and Continuing Studies. In October 2003, the University announced Momentum, The Campaign for the University of Miami, a billion-dollar effort to accelerate progress; empower learning and discovery; and intensify our impact on people in our city, across the country, and around the world.

Overview:

Today, the University's 12 colleges and schools offer approximately 155 undergraduate, 125 master's, 60 doctoral, and two professional areas of study, including specializations.

Campuses:

Five UM campuses incorporate 172 University-owned buildings totaling 5.9 million square feet on over 500 acres of land.

Coral Gables: The Coral Gables campus, which comprises two colleges and seven schools, is located on a 230-acre tract in suburban Coral Gables. It has 111 buildings occupying 3.7 million square feet. In 1999-2000, six buildings were demolished to make room for the Convocation Center which added 194,000 square feet of facility space. Also added to the list of University owned properties this past year was the University Credit Union.

Medical Campus: The University of Miami School of Medicine campus consists of 35 acres within the 80-acre University of Miami/Jackson Memorial Medical Center complex. Other facilities at the medical center, in addition to Jackson Memorial Hospital, include the Miami Veterans Affairs Medical Center and two University-owned hospitals—the University of Miami Hospital and Clinics and Anne Bates Leach Eye Hospital, along with the Sylvester Comprehensive Cancer Center and Bascom Palmer Eye Institute. Bascom Palmer was ranked the number one hospital in the country for ophthalmology in the 15th annual survey of “America's Best Hospitals” published in the U.S. News & World Reoprt; seven additional programs at UM/Jackson also received high rankings in the magazine. School of Medicine faculty currently conduct more than 1,300 research projects aimed at advances in basic science and clinical care in facilities totaling more than two million square feet of owned and leased space, which is currently expanding. Construction is under way for the new Clincal Research Building and Wellness Center, which will be home to more than 300,000 additional square feet for clinical research in such areas as pediatrics, clinical pharmacology, and patient safety.

Rosenstiel School Campus: The Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science is located on a 18-acre waterfront campus on Virginia Key in Biscayne Bay. The campus is part of a 65-acre marine research and education park that includes two U.S. Department of Commerce National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration research laboratories and the MAST Academy, the Miami-Dade County magnet high school for marine science and technology. The Rosenstiel School is one of the top five marine and atmospheric research and graduate education programs in the U.S. The School also oversees the operation of an archeological field research and education facility on 120 acres at Little Salt Springs, located in North Port, Florida.

South Campus: The south campus, located ten miles southwest of Coral Gables, opened in 1986 on a 106-acre site. Its six buildings provide 63,800 square feet for the purpose of conducting research and development projects. In 1997 an additional 30 acres were acquired bringing the total area of the south campus to 136 acres.

Richmond Campus: The Richmond campus, established in 2001, is a 76-acre site near south campus. Research facilities for the Rosenstiel School's Center for Southeastern Tropical Advanced Remote Sensing (CSTARS) and Richmond Satellite Operations Center (RSOC) are located on a portion of the new campus.

Other Facilities: The City of Miami/University of Miami James L. Knight International Conference Center adjoining the 618-room Hyatt Regency Hotel in downtown Miami houses a 5,000-seat convention hall, two auditoriums, 14 meeting rooms, three computer labs, and teleconference, downlink, and internet capabilities. The John J. Koubek Memorial Center located near the heart of Little Havana in Miami includes the historic Koubek mansion, with a seven-classroom annex, computer lab, and a 180-seat auditorium. The gardens of the Koubek Center are also available for parties, receptions, and other events. The University owns a total of six buildings, occupying 39,700 square feet, at locations other than the five campuses.

Schools and Colleges:

School of Architecture: The School of Architecture, founded in 1983, offers professionally accredited undergraduate and graduate degrees, with specializations in suburb and town design, computing, and research. Facilities at the School include studio workspace for each student, an architecture reference library linked to university-wide resources, a model shop, a slide library, the New Urbanism archive, a computer laboratory, the Center for Urban and Community Design (CUCD), and the Knight Center for Community Building. Almost half of enrolled students participate in study-abroad programs in Europe, Asia, the Caribbean Basin, and Latin America. The School's full-time faculty is complemented by part-time teachers drawn from the professional architecture community and by visiting critics and lecturers from around the world. Among the faculty are founders and participants in the Congress for the New Urbanism, a national movement of urban reform and community design. The faculty includes Distinguished Visiting Professor Vincent Scully, the 1995 Jefferson Lecturer for the National Council on the Humanities; and Catherine Lynn, renowned for her work in historic preservation. In addition, Professor Chuck Bohl directs the Knight Program in Community Building, a mid-career fellowship program. The School's faculty and students have earned numerous honors and accolades for excellence in design including, in 2002 an Award of Excellence from the Florida American Planning Association for the Coral Gables Downtown Plan. Other awards include a grant from the Getty Institute to complete a study of the gardens at the historic museum, Villa Vizcaya; and an award from the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB) in the category of Creative Integration of Practice and Education in the Academy, recognizing a University-wide effort involving more than 270 students and 40 faculty members. Architect and town planner Elizabeth Plater-Zyberk, a long time UM faculty member, is the dean.

College of Arts and Sciences: Founded at the University's inception in 1926 and housed in 22 buildings throughout the Coral Gables campus and parts of the medical campus, the College of Arts and Sciences enrolls over 4,100 undergraduate and over 590 graduate students in 20 departments and 11 interdisciplinary programs. Fourteen departments also offer graduate degrees in disciplines such as the arts, natural sciences, humanities, and social sciences. Several of the majors available to undergraduates in the College are offered in partnership with almost every other school at the University. These majors include political science and economics, offered in cooperation with the School of Business, microbiology and biochemistry with the School of Medicine, and musical theatre with the School of Music. Numerous marine-science-related majors are offered in partnership with the Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science. Degrees offered by the School of Communication and the School of Education require a second major from among those offered by the College of Arts and Sciences. Selected freshmen participate in the College's guaranteed admissions programs to one of the University's graduate degree programs in medicine, physical therapy, marine geology, and Latin American studies. The faculty of the College teach approximately 53 percent of the total credit hours taken by undergraduate students in all schools and colleges of the University of Miami. Among the 400 full-time faculty—who teach courses to all undergraduate students at the University—are award-winning teachers and research scholars, recognized nationally and internationally in their disciplines. These include editors of prominent journals, Fellows of the American Physical Society, the Founding President of the International Society of Clinical Psychology, award winning poets and creative writers, and members of important government advisory boards. The College also provides arranged community outreach activities, such as student productions at the Jerry Herman Ring Theatre and Alvin Sherman Family Stage; student, faculty, and visiting artist exhibitions in the College of Arts and Sciences Center and Gallery; volunteer activities in the public schools, hospitals and community clinics for developmentally disabled children; technology workshops for Miami-Dade public school teachers sponsored through the Foreign Languages Laboratory; a series of programs, hosted by the Biology and Psychology Departments and funded by various federal agencies and private foundations, geared to improve the participation of minorities in scientific careers through research opportunities for pre-college and undergraduate students; and career development opportunities for high-school and community-college faculty.

School of Business: The School of Business Administration was founded in 1929 and is accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. The School offers degrees at the bachelor's, master's and doctoral levels. Due to the University's position in an international community, the economics and political science departments are part of the School of Business. The Executive M.B.A. program, the largest of its kind in the United States, is offering Saturday programs both on and off campus and is now in its 31st year. The School's mission, approved in 1993 by the School Council, is to "provide an environment in which the creation and dissemination of business knowledge can flourish." Building on its competitive advantages, the School is rapidly evolving as the premier business school in the Southeast.

Communication: The School of Communication, founded in 1985, is one of the fastest growing schools at the University of Miami, with a current enrollment of approximately 1,215 undergraduates and 125 graduate students and a full-time faculty of 49 scholars and professionals. Major programs of study in the School include broadcasting and broadcast journalism, print journalism and photography, advertising, public relations, motion pictures and video-film, media management, and communication studies. Its broad range of student facilities and activities include a sound stage, cable television studios, motion picture digital editing facilities, computer and graphics labs, a working news bureau, and a nationally recognized debate team. In addition, the School operates its own office of placement, providing excellent opportunities for students to secure professional internships while they are in school and professional positions when they graduate.

Education: The School of Education, founded in 1929, houses the departments of teaching and learning, educational and psychological studies, and exercise and sports sciences. Undergraduate majors and minors are available in elementary, secondary, special, and music education, as well as exercise physiology, athletic training and sports administration. The School also offers master's degrees in the above areas as well as teaching English to speakers of other languages (TESOL), and counseling psychology. Doctoral programs are also available in the following areas: counseling psychology, exercise physiology, elementary education, reading, special education and teaching English to speakers of other languages (TESOL). Professional development schools and an on-campus technology lab provide students with state-of-the-art facilities. Teacher education courses of study are approved by the State of Florida and accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

College of Engineering: Founded in 1947, the College of Engineering is one of the largest schools of its kind in a private institution of higher learning. The College's most distinctive feature—interdisciplinary programs of study—is the result of its interactions and associations with several colleges/schools in the University. The biomedical engineering program involves a partnership with the School of Medicine, including a premedical concentration; the architectural engineering program with the School of Architecture; the audio engineering program with the School of Music; and the industrial engineering program with the School of Business Administration. Degrees are offered in aerospace, architectural, aerospace, biomedical, civil, computer, electrical, environmental, industrial, manufacturing and mechanical engineering, as well as engineering science and information technology. Masters and doctoral degrees are also offered in a variety of areas, with numerous specializations in each field of study. Many of the faculty in the College are involved in research, in their respective areas with world-wide recognition, who have helped establish institutes such as the Clean Energy Research Institute and the Miami Center on Human Factors and Aging. More recent highlights include the establishment of the following: the University of Miami College of Engineering Industrial Assessment Center, the A. Burns Center for Supply Chain Management, the Perry Ellis International Logistics Research Institute, the Manufacturing Research Institute, and the Biomechanics Research Group. The College of Engineering has also been named a Department of Energy Center for Hydrogen Research, along with being ranked 6th in the nation in Architectural Engineering and 5th in Manufacturing Engineering by the Gourman Report. The College of Engineering has 47 laboratories that enhance its instructions and research. In a typical academic year, the engineering student body consists of students from approximately 50 different countries. The College has 21 honor societies and student engineering organizations associated with areas of specialization and professional engineering organizations.

Frost School of Music: The Frost School of Music, founded in 1926, is one of the largest schools of its kind in a private institution and one of the most comprehensive in all of higher learning. With over 70 full-time and approximately 40 part-time faculty, an undergraduate student body of approximately 530 students, and 220 graduate students, the School of Music awards the Bachelor of Music degree with majors in 13 areas. The Bachelor of Arts in music degree is a non-professional degree designed for talented musicians who wish to pursue a broad liberal arts education. The Master of Music is offered with majors in 19 areas. The Master of Science degree is offered in music engineering technology. The Doctor of Philosophy degree is offered in music education, and the Doctor of Musical Arts degree is offered in nine areas. The School's facilities include the Maurice Gusman Concert Hall and the L. Austin Weeks Center for Recording and Performance, which contains the Victor E. Clarke Recital Hall, a state of the art recording studio, and the Austin and Marta Weeks Music Library and Technology Center, which contains six music technology labs. In addition, the Frost School of Music maintains two professional quality recording studios. Many of the School's faculty have gained national and international recognition in their respective fields. Several of the School's premier performing ensembles have won national awards and engage in touring within and outside the United States. The School has exchange programs with the Amsterdam School for the Arts; the University of Music and Performing Arts in Vienna; Buckinghamshire Chilterns University College in Buckinghamshire, England; the Western Australian Academy of Performing Arts at Edith Cowan University in Perth, Australia; and a five-week summer program in Salzburg, Austria. During the academic year the School presents more than 400 student forums, student and faculty recitals, concerts, lectures, master classes, and guest artist recitals.

As a major educational and cultural resource for South Florida, the Frost School of Music maintains a substantive philosophical and proactive commitment to serving a variety of constituencies by way of its numerous outreach programs, including Festival Miami, The Stamps Family Charitable Foundation Distinguished Visitor Series, Grammy in the Schools Careers in Music, The Ress Family Hospital Performance Project, Friends of Music, Inc., Honor band and Honor Choir, Honors Music Theatre, Dance Preparatory, Keyboard for Kids, Strings for Kids, UM MusicTime, Music Education Days, and summer music camps for children and students from 2 months to 19 years old. The School of Music has active chapters of a number of professional music organizations.

Graduate School: The University of Miami first approved courses for graduate work in 1941. In the late 1950s the University initiated study to award the doctorate, and the first degrees at this level were approved in 1959. Currently, graduate student enrollment stands at 3,235. The University and its 185 programs are fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, as well as by a number of other independent accrediting agencies. The faculty of the Graduate School currently consists of over 600 members in over 95 departments, divisions, and programs within the University. The Graduate School sets all policies for graduate education and oversees the quality of graduate programs. Its operation is conducted by the Graduate Council and more than 17 standing Graduate Faculty Committees. The mission of the Graduate School is to promote graduate education, scholarship, and research; to support individuals, departments, and programs in the pursuit of excellence; to foster innovation, multidisciplinary, and interdisciplinary activities; and to maintain high ethical and academic standards in graduate studies.

Law School: Founded in 1928, the University of Miami School of Law presently enrolls approximately 1,310 candidates for either J.D. or LL.M. degrees and has approximately 16,000 alumni worldwide. The J.D. program enrolls 1,176 students from more than 300 colleges and universities throughout the United States. Of the entering J.D. students, approximately 47 percent are women, 25 percent are members of minority groups, and 62 percent are from outside Florida. The School offers graduate programs in comparative law, inter-American law, international law, ocean and coastal law, taxation, estate planning, and real property development. The Master of Laws in comparative law program typically enrolls approximately 50 foreign lawyers from 25 or more nations. The School's renowned faculty includes approximately 60 full-time professors and over 100 distinguished lawyers and judges who serve as adjunct professors. The Law Library is one of the country's leading legal research libraries, with close to 600,000 bound volumes and volume equivalents. It has special collections in taxation, estate planning, ocean law, and foreign and international law – including one of the most comprehensive Latin American and Caribbean collections in the U.S. The School is accredited by the American Bar Association, is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, and has a chapter of the national law student honorary society, the Order of the Coif.

Medical School: Though one of the youngest medical schools in the U.S., the University of Miami School of Medicine, founded in 1952, has earned national acclaim for research, clinical care, and biomedical innovations, establishing the University of Miami/Jackson Memorial Medical Center as one of the best in the nation. The school has over 1,160 full-time faculty members and an additional 1,300 professionals from the community serving as voluntary faculty in various departments. Along with the M.D. degree, the school offers two specialized B.S./M.D. programs, a combined M.D./Ph.D. program, graduate degrees in nine areas, and continuing medical education courses.

Located in the Civic Center area, north of downtown Miami, the school's 35-acre campus exists within the 80-acre University of Miami/Jackson Memorial Medical Center complex. Each year the medical school's 770 faculty physicians treat one million patients in primary care and more than 30 specialties. In addition to the University's two hospitals—University of Miami Hospital and Clinics and Anne Bates Leach Eye Hospital—clinical facilities also are located at Jackson Memorial Hospital, the Miami Veterans' Administration Medical Center, five primary care centers throughout Miami-Dade County, and a half-dozen area hospitals. Other clinical and research programs include the Comprehensive AIDS Program, the Division of Transplantation, the Miami Project to Cure Paralysis, the Diabetes Research Institute, the Mailman Center for Child Development and many more. Also located in the medical complex is the Louis Calder Memorial Library, the largest medical resource library in South Florida.

Fully accredited by the Liaison Committee on Medical Education of the Association of American Medical Colleges, the School of Medicine is committed to graduating first-rate physicians and leads the nation in establishing innovative curriculum and admissions policies. For example, the Community Clinical Experience Program assigns first-year students to provide care at public health clinics, including a homeless facility. Among the many student activities that reflect the commitment to community service is the Florida Keys Health Fair, providing screening and health care exams for under-served areas of the Florida Keys for more than 30 years. In 1993 the School of Medicine student body received the first-ever Outstanding Community Service Award from the Association of American Medical Colleges, and in 1998

School of Medicine students earned the Health Care Hero Award from the Greater Miami Chamber of Commerce for their volunteer work in the community.

School of Nursing: A tradition of academic leadership and community service has characterized nursing at the University of Miami since 1948, when it became the first collegiate nursing program in South Florida. The School of Nursing has demonstrated a commitment to academic excellence, the advancement of nursing as a discipline, and service to society through innovative and socially responsive programs of nursing education and research. All programs emphasize culturally competent nursing, which recognizes an individual's unique health beliefs and practices. The School of Nursing has offered the master's degree since 1976, and the Ph.D. program admitted its first students in 1985. Nursing programs are accredited by the National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission and the American College of Nurse-Midwives. In an effort to accommodate the needs of working students, the School of Nursing offers a weekend B.S.N. program for individuals who are already employed as R.N.s. Post-baccalaureate certificate programs in key areas such as education, research, and administration are currently being developed. Off site programs are also being explored at all educational levels. Students obtain clinical experiences in a variety of agencies throughout Miami-Dade, Broward, Palm Beach, and Monroe counties, including hospitals, elementary and secondary schools, primary health care centers, migrant camps, day-care centers, nurse-managed health centers, and health departments. The University of Miami chapter of Sigma Theta Tau, the International Honor Society of Nursing, invites qualified students to join the second largest nursing organization in the United States. Students are also encouraged to join the National Student Nurses Association and the Black Student Nurses Association, which are designed to perpetuate the ideals and aspirations of the nursing profession. The School of Nursing is building a new state-of-the-art education and research facility in the center of the Coral Gables campus. The M. Christine Schwartz Center for Nursing Education and Research is scheduled to open in the spring of 2006.

Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science: The Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science is one of the leading oceanographic research and education institutions in the nation. The marine laboratory was created in 1943, evolved into the Institute for Marine Science in 1961, and eight years later became the Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science within the University of Miami. The Virginia Key campus has grown to include modern research and teaching facilities, an excellent library, and a state-of-the-art catamaran research vessel, the F.G. Walton Smith. With a faculty of over 100 Ph.D.'s, the School's experts cover virtually all fields of ocean and atmospheric science. Scientists and their graduate students at Rosenstiel study a wide range of important topics, many of which relate to the environment and humanity's growing influence on the natural world. They are at the forefront of research on subjects such as circulation in the atmosphere and ocean and how it influences the movement of pollutants and affects global warming, fisheries, coral reefs, sea level change, marine policy, and hurricane development.

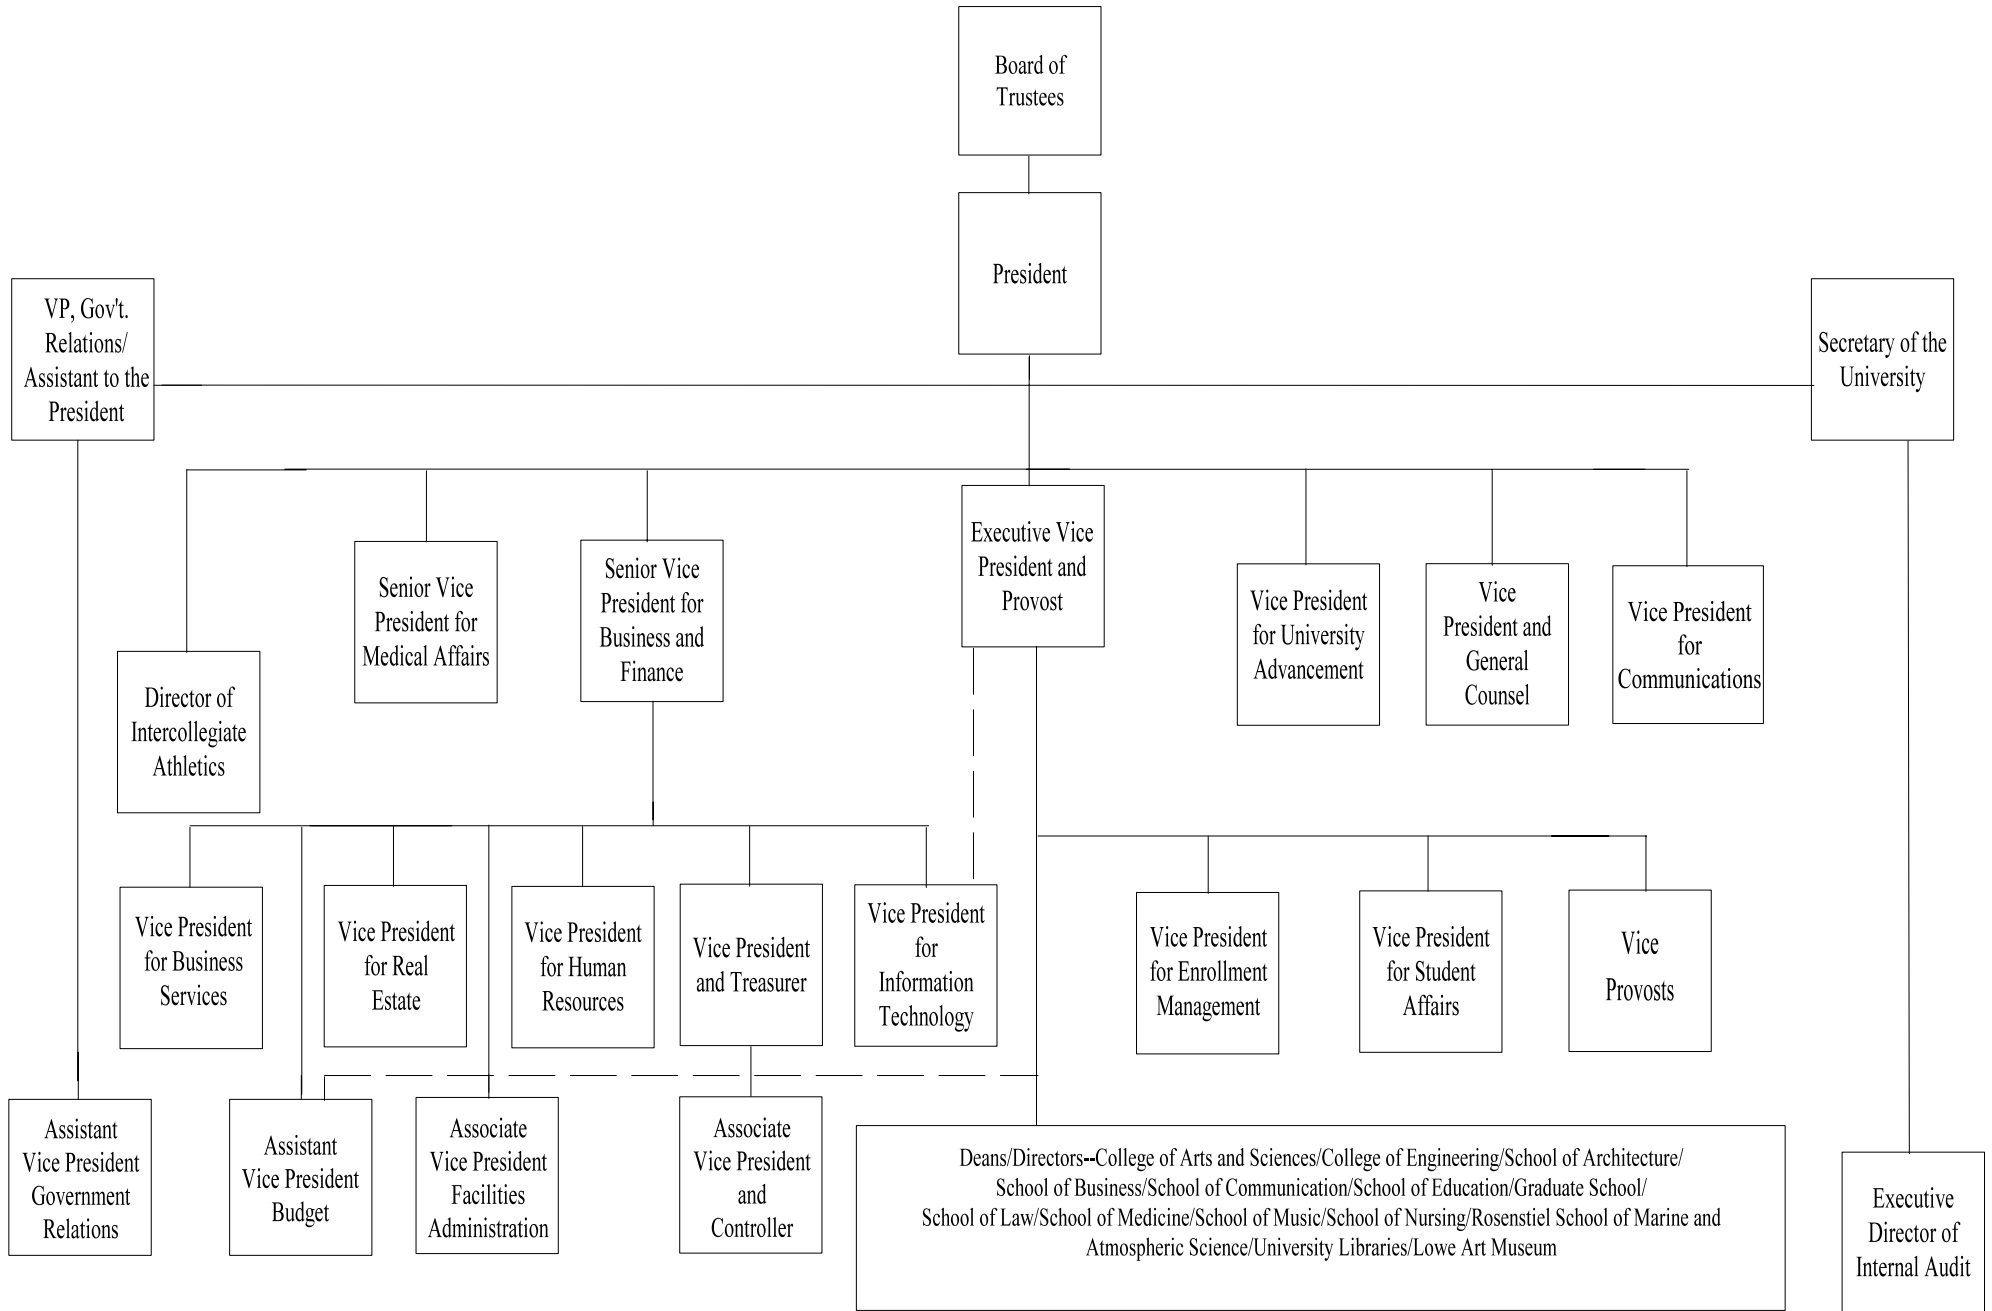

Through course work and research, students at the Rosenstiel School may obtain a Master of Science, Master of Arts, or Doctor of Philosophy degree. The School offers curricula in applied marine physics, marine affairs and policy, marine and atmospheric chemistry, marine biology and fisheries, marine geology and geophysics, and meteorology and physical oceanography. The division of marine affairs and policy at the Rosenstiel School and the University of Miami School of Law offer a joint degree in law and marine affairs. Upon completion of this program, a student earns a Juris Doctor degree from the School of Law and a Master of Arts degree in marine affairs and policy from the Rosenstiel School. The division of marine affairs and policy at the Rosenstiel School and the University of Miami School of Law offer a joint degree in law and marine affairs. Upon completion of this program, a student earns a Juris Doctor degree from the School of Law and a Master of Arts degree in marine affairs and policy from the Rosenstiel School. The division of marine affairs and policy also offers a Master of Science degree with an integrated track in science and policy, providing students with a strong science background the opportunity to build careers in marine resource management. Interdisciplinary studies and learning are strongly encouraged.

The Rosenstiel School and the College of Arts and Sciences jointly offer a Bachelor of Arts degree in marine affairs and policy, Bachelor of Science degrees in marine science/biology, marine science/chemistry, marine science/geology, and marine science/physics, and a Bachelor of Science degree in meteorology. There are two options leading to a B.S. in meteorology: (1) double-major B.S. in meteorology and applied mathematics and; (2) a B.S. in meteorology with a minor in math and one additional minor selected from chemistry, physics, computer science, or biology. In addition to the traditional bachelor degree programs, the Rosenstiel School and the College of Arts and Sciences now offer a 5-year Bachelor of Arts/Master of Arts in marine affairs and policy and a 5-year Bachelor of Science/Master of Science in geological sciences/marine geology.

Cutting edge research and education at the Rosenstiel School is supported through grants from government agencies and private organizations as well as donations and innovative partnerships. Graduate students are an integral part of the research effort, and research programs, many of which are multidisciplinary in nature, provide a dynamic environment for collaboration among professors and students.
